

Ontario Ecology & Ethology Colloquium

A special logo identifies the 1980 Ontario Ecology and Ethology Colloquium. The design features three circles; the first, a sun burst representing the macro-environment, the second, the flora through stylized trees, and the third, representative fauna. The rays of the sun carry over into the other two circles indicating the dependence of the flora and fauna on the macro-environment. The circles interlock to emphasize the inter-related nature of the ecological system. Interlocking, they form a stylized Trillium, the floral emblem of Ontario. The drawing together of the circles further suggests the concept of a Colloquium and the overlapping interests of the disciplines involved.

The design is the work of a Brock University graduate, Jim Taggart, presently doing graduate work at York University and the University of Toronto.
